Clause of the Deed of Settlement, at the Banking House of the Company in Rampart Row, on THURSDAY the 24th instant, at 1 o'clock P. M., to confirm the following Resolutions passed at the Yearly General Meeting of the Company on the 5th instant:—

Resolved.—That (it having been found to be practically impossible to adhere strictly to the terms of Clause LXII. Rule 6 and 7 of the Bank's Original Deed of Settlement which provide that all Bills of Exchange and Notes, except those of Government and of Joint Stock Banks, purchased, discounted or advanced upon by the Bank shall bear the several responsibilities of at least two sufficient persons or firms unconnected with each other in general partnership or shall be accompanied by the guarantee of another party of sufficient credit or by such collateral security as the Directors may take except in cases where the contrary shall by special resolution of the Directors be sanctioned) Clause LXII., Rules 6 and 7 be repealed."

Resolved.—That experience having shewn it to be inconvenient in practice and otherwise unproductive of beneficial results that a Director retiring from office shall not be eligible for a re-election until after the expiration of one year from the time of his retirement, Clause LXXV. of the Company's Original Deed of settlement be accordingly amended by striking out the words "and no Director who shall from time to time retire shall be eligible to" be re-elected until he shall have ceased to be Director for "one year."

Resolved.—"That Clause VII. of the Bank's Second Supplementary Deed of Settlement be repealed and the following clause substituted in lieu thereof:—

VII. "That the 16th Clause of the said supplement to the Deed of Settlement be repealed and the following be substituted in lieu thereof, viz.

"The Company shall not be in advance (subject to the Provisoes hereinafter contained) at one and the same time nor accept liabilities either by way of discount, loan, endorsement of Bills or in any other manner to an extent exceeding three Lacs of Rupees, of any individual or partnership firm or the individuals composing a partnership firm except Joint Stock Banks.

"Provided always that the aforesaid limit of Rs. 300,000 may be increased to the extent of an additional Rs. 300,000 unless notification shall have been received in due course of business that the Bills of Exchange which shall have been advanced upon have not been accepted payable in London by the drawee or drawees thereof in Great Britain, Ireland or other parts of Europe and so on as often as Bills of Exchange drawn on any person or persons or firm in Great Britain, Ireland or other parts of Europe and advanced upon by the Bank shall not be notified in due course to have been refused acceptance by the drawee or drawees thereof.

"Provided further that the Directors shall have the power and they are hereby authorized at any time when and as often as they shall be of opinion and shall record a special resolution that it is for the interest of the Bank so to do to be in advance in the manner lastly herein before provided to the extent of six lacs of Rupees to be similarly added to, the extent of another six lacs of Rupees and so on failing notification of non-acceptance in due course of Bills of Exchange, it being declared and agreed that upon the passing and record of such special resolution of the Directors as aforesaid the Proviso lastly hereinbefore contained shall and may be acted upon in all respects as if the sum of Rs. 3,00,000 thereby limited had in the first instance been Rs. 6,00,000 and the additions of Rs. 3,00,000 thereby authorized had been Rs. 6,00,000.

"Provided also that the Bank shall be at liberty to purchase Bills of Exchange from any individual or partnership firm to any amount in excess of the several before mentioned amount of liabilities, such Bills of Exchange being in all cases document Bills, that is to say the payment thereof being secured to the Bank by the deposit of the shipping documents of goods or produce duly endorsed, of Government Bank shares, Government paper, Bullion, Government Bills or shares, in any Indian Railway Company, and provided lastly, that the agents of the Bank at the several Branches in China shall be at liberty to come under advances to and accept the liabilities of any firm in China to the extent of six lacs of Rupees in the first instance without the necessity of a special resolution of the Directors to that effect, and in the absence of notification in due course of non acceptance in Great Britain, Ireland or other parts of Europe payable in London by the drawee or drawees of the Bills of Exchange purchased, to increase such limit to the extent of an additional Rs. 6,00,000 upon similar terms and so on as occasions shall require."

N. B.—The keen competition now existing among the Music Houses in London gives increased facilities for direct importation from the principal makers, and selections of those Instruments which have gained special approbation. It is well known that by skill one maker will excel in particular instruments, or perfecting one invention, (exclusively), not giving attention to others of equal importance in the Band; on his account HERBERT and Co. decline accepting any Agency for Musical Instruments to the exclusion of others equally good.

and stupor: it is not so well able to hold its own as formerly; rivals are closing in on all sides, lively, hungry, and expectant; and very soon all will succeed in plunging their beaks into the carcase.

On several occasions lately we have endeavoured to comfort the public with the prospect of coming relief from the tyrannous monopoly beneath which they have been growing more and more restless. Not in one quarter but in many are rivals preparing themselves for the contest. On behalf of the public we should prefer one well equipped, well managed opposition, to half a dozen less powerful and less effective competitors. We cannot, however, doubt that good will come to the community in the shape of reduced fares and better accommodation from the approaching competition; and the determination of the Indian Government not to renew the postal contrast with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, at its expiry a year hence, gives this assurance of success a firmer basis to rest upon. It is this lucrative contract that has practically placed our present masters above the reach of successful rivalry. They must now enter the market with other companies, and if their tender for the conveyance of the mails between Great Britain and the East is to be accepted, it will be upon such conditions as will not enable them to carry matters with quite so high a hand as heretofore. Every way the future is full of hope to the yearly increasing class of the community interested in cheap and rapid communication between this country and home.

It will however have been seen that the tenders which are invited are tenders for a weekly line of steamers to Bombay. This indicates that the authorities both in India and in England have come to the resolution of adopting Bombay as the port of postal communication with Europe. Some time ago we heard that this decision had been come to, despite the Calcutta and Madras remonstrances. If, as appearances indicate, this arrangement be carried out, we really do not see that Madras will have much cause to regret the change. At present the uncertainty delays and irregularities of the post between Bombay and Madras, are notable trials of commercial patience. If we were to be dependent for our overland communications on this route, the measure in prospect might reasonably fill us with uneasiness. But with a line of rail complete to Beypoor, it seems to us we shall be considerable gainers by the change. The communication between that port and Bombay by weekly steamer will be easy and rapid; passengers and letters ought to gain from forty-eight to sixty hours on the passage between Aden and Madras. We shall be reminded of the perils of the Beypoor harbour for some weeks of the year, but on pretty safe authority we have been led to think that the alleged danger has been made something of a bugbear It is satisfactory to know that the Railway Engineer who has been stationed at Beypoor for the last three years has not met with a single week during which he was not able to land stores with perfect safety. Theoritically the Madras surf is impassable for a certain portion of the year; practically, we all know, that this has very rarely interfered with the landing either of mails or passengers. It will prove much the same, we fancy, on the other coast; and the public of this Presidency ought to welcome the experiment.

PERSIANS IN AFFGHANISTAN.

(From the Delhi Gazette, April 17.)

We find, that at the present juncture, our Cabool letters are justly attracting much attention. We do not, and cannot, blame any of our contemporaries, for their natural anxiety to learn, and be convinced of, the fact of our Cabool correspondent being trustworthy. To those of them, who endeavour, by an ill-concealed malice, to mislead the public as regards the authenticity of our information, and, who insinuate a doubt of our honesty, we would wish to say, that, in betraying a discreditable weakness, they do not injure us. We simply defy them. To those, who ask us, or expect us to declare our confidence in the news-writer, we have only to observe that, if he were not credited by us his communications would not find a place in these columns. We cannot say more:

There can be no question that we are approaching a crisis, as respects our relations with the Chiefs of Persia and Affghanistan. There can be no question that an influence, which we may suspect but cannot accuse, has emboldened the ruler of Persia to disregard his agreement with us, and to defy our power. The skill of Russian intrigue is to well known, and has been too frequently experienced, to need any panegyric at this moment. Unmolested by interference, it has been for years silently but surely doing its work. The untruthfulness and deceit to which the Czars of Russia will not hesitate in resorting, each to carry out his portion of the work needed to complete the behests of Peter the Great, are proverbial. Yet the approaches of that colossal power are unheeded. Its emissaries have for some time past been visiting the Persian Court, while others have with indefatigable zeal been wandering about among the people, disseminating fables of England's treachery and weakness. These facts have from time to time been published by us. We are no Russophobiasts. We are aware that her invasion of India is at present a matter of impossibility, but we cannot deny that the policy laid down by Peter is being very gradually carried out. It has been, and will be, passed on from father to son as an heirloom. Russia must know well that the encroachments of Persia will be resented by the British. What then? Her purpose is answered; that is precisely a part of her plans and intentions. The approaching demise, in the course of nature of Dost Mahomed was considered a fitting opportunity to urge the commencement of an invasion. The recent rumours of his failing powers, the feud between his sons, and the probable complications that will arise at his death, have all been carefully weighed. The result is before us. We see the commencement of a prolonged war in which British interference will play a prominent and important part. Who can divine its termination. Russia will perch upon her eyre and view afar off the work of her unscrupulous diplomatists. The tenacity with which the Jesuit General adhered to the wealth of the Reneponts; the zeal and cunning with which he, under the most adverse circumstances, successively destroyed each claimant to it, is fully equalled by the silent endeavours of the Russian throne to become the autocrat of all Asia.

The news from Cabool brought us by this day's post is of unusual importance. The letter published in our issue of the 12th noticed a rumour of the fall of Furrah. It is now confirmed. It will be observed that Sultan Ahmed Jan was in personal command of the troops that marched on Furrah. We cannot but pay our tribute of admiration to the spirit of the venerable Ameer. But it will not avail against the skill of Russian commanders, if there be any, as it is said there are, in the Persian army. It cannot be long now before the Indian Government will make a sign. The earlier the better.

SEAT OF THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT.

(From the Deccan Herald, April 18.)

Melancholy proof has been furnished us, during the last few years, that an active official existence, or a prolonged residence in Calcutta, has a very direful effect upon the European constitution. The Marchioness of Dalhousie had only been a short time in Calcutta, before her health gave way, and she was obliged to return to England. But she was destined never to reach the land of her birth; she had staid too long in India, and the consequence was that she breathed her last almost within sight of the British shores. The Marquis of Dalhousie went home a hopeless wreck, which neither the skill of physicians, nor the influence of genial climes, could repair; and after dragging out a miserable existence for some five years, he perished in the prime of his age, a victim to overwork and anxiety, amidst the pestiferous atmosphere of Calcutta. Dr. George Buist, celebrated in Bombay, for the soundness of his constitution, and the strength and activity of his frame, could not bear up against the baleful influence of a Bengal climate, and he too was called upon to pay the penalty which a brief sojourn had incurred. The Hon'ble Mr. Wilson, whose restless mind refused to the body that repose which is so imperatively required, in tropical climates, was likewise obliged to succumb, and he also sleeps in the Calcutta Golgotha. So does the Countess Canning, who perished in the meridian of her age, and on the eve of her return to that circle, which, previous to her departure for India, had been embellished by her beauty, and adorned by her intellect. The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie was, likewise, ruthlessly swept away, in the middle of his age, and in the height of his fame. Beauty, strength, and virtue appear to be all equally objects of indifference to the sword of the destroying angel: he smites all that come within the sweep of his weapon, and that too with a precision which seldom errs. It is, therefore, scarcely a matter for surprise that the question of removing the seat of the imperial Government, to some more healthy situation, has at length become a matter for serious consideration. The merits of various places have been discussed, but nothing definite has as yet been arrived at. The various journals of India have taken up the subject from time to time, but the writers, generally, give a decided preference to the town or city in which their newspapers are established: so that their facts and opinions have to be received with extreme caution. The papers of Bombay are loud in praise of that city, and those of Bengal are equally partial to Calcutta. The Madras journals are more guarded in their expressions; but, at the same time, it is easy to perceive that they regard the Neilgherries as a kind of Indian paradise. The North West papers again look upon Agra as an imperial centre, and seem to be quite astonished that the world generally should not be as enchanted with the city of the Taj as they are themselves: while the Simla print, which sheds a dim light on the verge of civilization, boldly recommends the slopes of the Himalayas for the seat of legislation, and the site of a new capital. Amidst such a diversity of opinions, it is difficult to arrive at anything like a correct idea of the most suitable place for the seat of the imperial government, and we, therefore turn all the more readily to the suggestion thrown out by the Saturday Review, that of all the cities of the empire, Poona is probably the best adapted for being converted into the new Indian Capital. An opinion of this kind, coming from such a source, cannot but be received with respect. The writer, from his position, can take an impartial view of the question, and it is upon the hints which he has furnished, that we now intend to write. Poona is admirably situated for [illegible] Intelligence all over India. We are now in [illegible]nication, by means of the electric telegraph, [illegible] leading cities of India; and in a very [illegible] London and Poona will be within [illegible] of each other. In two years [illegible] most, the Governor General—[illegible] here—will be able to make [illegible] North to South and from East to West by means of the railway, at an average speed of twenty miles an hour. The grand trunk lines are everywhere rapidly progressing, and should no untoward accident occur, they will be completed within the period we have specified. As regards the climate of the Deccan Capital, opinions are divided; it is probable that living in it all the year round, for any length of time, would be attended with injurious effect; but its proximity to Mahableshwer and Bombay renders a residence of this kind unnecessary. From June to the end of September the climate of the Deccan is, nearly, as genial as that of England, during the summer months. During the hot month of October and the early part of November, Khandalla, which is within a two hours' ride of Poona by rail, has a very agreeable climate indeed—thence to Bombay, which is delightful during the cold season, and then on to Mahableshwer for the three hot months, or back at Poona, from which the Viceroy and his Council could proceed, easily—if their duties permitted—to the summits of the adjacent mountains, Poorundhur or Singhur, the climate of which offers an agreeable change to the heated atmosphere of the plains. The old Peishwas adopted this system of existence, and derived great benefit from it their taste for high altitudes having probably been engendered by Sivajee, whom Aurungzebe christened the mountain rat. There may be more healthy cities than Poona, but its climate is not insalubrious; and we believe that military statistics will shew that our troops suffer less, in the Deccan, than almost at any other station in the Presidency. The country around Poona has been pronounced to be the garden of Western India, on account of its fertility and high state of cultivation—a fact which speaks volumes in favour of the climate of the old capital of the Mahrattas. Were the seat of government transferred to Poona, Bombay would participate in the advantages of the change—the proximity to each other scarcely permitting the two cities to be rivals. It has been said that Poona is simply a suburb of Bombay; but we do not think that the party, who made the statement, could ever have visited the Deccan capital. Bombay bears about the same relation to Poona that Glasgow does to Endinburgh: our city Brahmins are as learned as those of Benares, and their traditions are as ancient as any that are to be found in India. Unlike Bombay, Poona can extend her dimensions in every direction: a plain watered by fine rivers lies in front of her, and lofty mountains, towering into the skies, woo wearied citizens to their summits to enjoy an atmosphere almost as cool and bracing as that of the elevated range of Mahableshwer. The boar may still be speared within a day's journey of the proposed Indian capital; the hunting-leopard occasionally pulls the "dun-deer down" with a twenty miles' ride of St. Mary's Church, and a trip by rail Sholapoor-wards, will carry sportsmen, at a trifling expense, into wild solitudes inhabited by the bison and the bear. All these are royal sports, and not to be enjoyed with equal facility in any other part of India. Our viceroys—temporarily retiring from business as it were—can improvise a Compeigné almost at any moment, and select the rod, the rifle, or the spear just as the humour seizes them. Should it be the Earl of Elgin's good fortune to take up his residence in the Deccan capital, he will be able to visit mountain castles in which, if they had been in Scotland, his great ancestor Robert the Bruce would have been able to have defied all the armies of England. He will enjoy around Poona, scenery such as his eyes have never yet rested upon; in Bombay and the vicinity, he will see land and sea views, unsurpassed in the world, for gorgeous beauty; and in the ascent of the Western Ghauts he will perceive peaks, crags and chasms which will remind him of Alpine ranges stripped of their snowy vestments. But we will not anticipate the future: we may, however, mention that we entertain the belief that Bombay and Poona will share, between them, the honour of being the future capitals of India.

ENGLISH ENTERPRISE IN INDIA DISCOURAGED.

(From the Sindian, April 16.)

A letter from home informs us that a scheme for the irrigation of this province, by the agency of a private company, has dropped through, owing to the cold water thrown upon it by Sir Charles Wood. A gentleman who was formerly connected with the Railway Company here, left for England more than a year ago, convinced by the results of his own observations that the perennial irrigation, of large tracts of land in Sind, by extremely simple means was not only feasible, but that it might be accomplished in such a manner as to return a large profit to any one undertaking it, and at the same time largely benefit the country and its inhabitants. This has ever been the conviction of such persons of intelligence as have examined the subject for themselves, and it has been admitted by Government Officers without number. In fact ever since our annexation of the province, the government in a manner have stood committed to carry out some scheme or other for its perennial irrigation; and this obligation they have apparently recognized, by the establishment of a distinct canal department of great efficiency, and by the numerous reports and plans, which from time to time have been drawn up by Engineers of talent and experience. Seeing however that but a single one of these magnificent designs has been actually carried out, and that financial embarrassment has been said to be at the bottom of this apparent indifference to the most crying necessities of Sind, it was not unreasonable for our friend to suppose, that a well digested plan of irrigation by a joint stock company, ready to invest their capital in the furtherance of an object which the government are apparently unable to compass, would meet with every encouragement. He was mistaken however. There was no difficulty experienced in obtaining capital, nor was there anything visionary about the scheme. It was the plan of a practical engineer of considerable experience, and was approved by other engineers to whom it was exhibited in detail. Fortified in this way therefore, and fully prepared as we learn, to commence immediately the irrigation of large tracts in the Delta of the Indus, the projectors of the enterprise applied to the Secretary of State for India for the purpose of ascertaining whether the Government were favorable to their design. They asked no pecuniary assistance—in fact one of their fundamental principles was that government guarantees were more of an impediment than otherwise to such an enterprise, and they wisely determined to have no Government inspectors and Engineers, checking their expenditure in detail, and harassing them by constant and officious interference. All that they required was the countenance and support of the Government, without which they knew it was hopeless for interlopers to anticipate any success in this country. Sir Charles Wood however refused to bestow even this small modicum of encouragement. He does not appear to have disapproved of their design (although our informant is silent upon this point) and we have little doubt he talked very prettily about the wish of Her Majesty's Government to encourage independent English enterprise in India; but the long and short of the matter was, that Government were going to irrigate Sind themselves, and did not at present require any assistance. Now under certain circumstances we should have had no cause to quarrel with this reply of the Secretary of State for India. Had we just come into possession of the province,—had we any confidence in that accord between the Home and local Governments which alone could induce us to place any reliance on Sir Charles Wood's promises—and finally, could we but see the faintest signs of his views being shared by the Executive here, we should not put ourselves out because a particular scheme had been looked upon with disfavor at home. But the real circumstances of the case are widely different. It is now fifteen years since we entered upon the government of Sind, and nearly seven since the establishment of the Canal department on its present basis; but during all this time, the Government have always been going to do something, and the public have long lost faith in their promises: while during the last year, the prospects of Sind have been still further impaired by the unfavorable light in which she was placed by Sir Bartle Frere's late financial minute. Again, the promise to which we have referred, that at last something is to be done, does not emanate from the Indian Government, but from Sir Charles Wood, which is a very different thing indeed. We heard a good deal in old days about the double government of India, and its lamentable consequence, but we doubt if matters are much better now. As a case in point we may mention, that in the House of Commons on March 14th, in reply to an enquiry of Sir J. Elphinstone's as to the intentions of the Government, with regard to the officers of the Indian Navy, Sir Charles Wood did not scruple to let every one know, that there was but little accord between his own views and those of the Indian Executive. "Instructions" said the Secretary of State "had been sent to the Government of India, with reference to the Indian Navy, but they had not been complied with; the Indian Government having taken a different view of the matter." In the face of such an admission as this, it is impossible for us to feel the slightest confidence in any promises made by Sir Charles Wood, that such and such measures were shortly to be introduced.

But even suppose that the Government were prepared for immediate action, and ready to do their long deferred duty by our unfortunate province, is that any valid reason why Sir Charles Wood should discourage the invaluable assistance of English private enterprise? Is it possible to irrigate Sind in a day or even a year, or ten years as she ought to be irrigated? Here was a case in which a private company sought to relieve the Government of a small portion of an acknowledged duty, in the carrying out of which the latter have signally failed. They were prepared to bring English capital into a province, which is perishing for lack of a liberal expenditure; they would have turned barren deserts into gardens of fertility; they would have largely increased our exports and the importance of our port by stimulating the sources of supply; they would have rendered it worth the while of other capitalists to have embarked their money in agricultural speculations, certain to make magnificent returns; and they would have largely benefited the poorer classes by finding them profitable employment during the progress of the works. But it was not to be. The Delta of the Indus is still to remain a desert, the Sindee Zemindar to continue in the hands of the money lenders, the province to be looked upon as a burden to the country, and our merchants to seek in vain for adequate supplies of raw produce, because Sir Charles Wood says that the Indian Government say they are going to irrigate Sind themselves! We hesitate about using such a hackneyed and vulgar comparison as the fabulous dog in the manger, but we can find nothing so apt. At least, let us hear no more at present, about the liberal encouragement offered to private enterprise in India.

The Accumulated Assets exceed	Rs. 19,40,000
The Annual Income from Premiums exceeds	,, 7,50,000

The Premiums.

THE circumstances under which the Premiums for India were computed are these:—Under authority from the Court of Directors of the late Honorable East India Company, of date September, 1847, Mr. Nelson, the Actuary, was permitted to examine the records of the India House, with a view to his completion of a Report on the state of the Bengal Military Fund. The Rates of Premium of this Company were computed from the data thereby afforded, and from the subsequent practical experience of the Company. No other Life Assurance Company has enjoyed similar advantages in this respect.

For the Assurance of Rupees 1,000 for the whole term of life with profits, the rates without profits being about 10 per cent. less than the following.

Age.	Civil. Half-yearly. Rs.	as.	p.	Civil. Monthly. Rs.	as.	p.	Military. Half-yearly. Rs.	as.	p.	Military. Monthly. Rs.	as.	p.
20	16	8	0	2	14	9	19	8	0	3	7	3
30	20	0	0	3	8	8	22	0	0	3	14	4
40	25	0	0	4	6	10	28	0	0	4	9	8
50	33	0	0	5	13	6	33	8	0	5	14	11
60	46	0	0	8	2	4	47	0	0	8	5	2

EXAMPLE.—An Officer, aged 30, may secure Rupees 10,000 to his heirs at his decease, whenever that may happen, by paying Rs. 220 half-yearly, or Rupees 38-15-4 monthly, to this Company: or on the without profit scale, Rupees 200 half-yearly, or Rupees 35-6-8 monthly.

The Premiums for SHORT TERMS correspondingly moderate and especially favorable for Military men.

Profits

Are divisible every three years, a proportion equal to Five-sixths of the whole profits being at the option of the Assured, payable in Cash, added to the Policy, or applied in reduction of future premiums.

The next division will take place as at 31st December, 1861.

Guarantee Department.

In this department the Company guarantees the fidelity of individuals filling, or about to fill, situations of trust, where security is required for their integrity.

The Company's arrangements for the extension of the Guarantee System to India are not yet matured, but in the meantime proposals will be received and forwarded to London.

General Advantages.

These are fully stated in the Prospectus. The following may be noticed:—

Premiums may be paid Monthly. Fifteen days of grace allowed for payment of Premiums. Medical Examiners remunerated for Reports. Policies indisputable. Civil rates charged on the lives of Military Officers holding Civil appointments. Polices may, at the time of being effected, be made payable in London at the rate of two Shillings sterling per Company's Rupee.

Every information as to the Constitution, Terms, and Conditions of the Company, will be supplied, and Forms and instructions to parties wishing to effect Assurance, will be forwarded, on application being made to the Agents.

ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY THIS SOCIETY.

THE profits are declared in each year, on the second Wednesday in May, from and after which date all persons assured for the whole term of life on the participating scale, and on whose Policies six complete annual or twelve complete half yearly original premiums have been paid, are entitled to participate in the profits of succeeding years in either of the modes provided by the Deed of Settlement, viz., either by a reduction of the annual or half-yearly premiums for the current year as they fall due, or an equivalent addition to the sum assured by way of a bonus. Each assurer, on his first becoming entitled to participate in the profits, has the option of selecting either of the foregoing methods, and three months from the date of declaration of the profits is allowed for his making that selection, which, however, when once determined on, cannot be altered in after years.

2.—One fifth of the ascertained profits of the five past years is divided between the Policyholders and Shareholders—three-fourths to the former, and one-fourth to the latter; the remaining four-fifths are set apart to enter into the average to be struck on the next succeeding year.

3.—The following table will show the operation of the reduction allowed by the division of profits for 1860 which is equivalent to 45 per cent. on the current annual premium of all Policies entitled to participation:—

Age next birth-day when Policy was issued.	Date of Policy previous to the 2nd day Wednesday in May.	Sum assured.	Original Premium.	Reduction. Rs.	a.	p.	Annual Premium Payable after deduction. Rs.	a.	p.
		Co.'s Rs.	Rs.
20	May 1855	10,000	420	189	0	0	231	0	0
30	,,	10,000	480	216	0	0	264	0	0
40	,,	10,000	590	265	8	0	324	8	0
50	,,	10,000	740	333	0	0	407	0	0
60	,,	10,000	1,030	463	8	0	566	8	0

4.—From the foregoing explanations it will be seen that the benefits arising from a participation in the profits are actually experienced (when a reduction of the premium is selected) at the periods when the seventh annual, or thirteenth and fourteenth half-yearly premiums fall due. In the case, however, of a Bonus to the sum assured being selected, an equivalent sum will be added to the policy for the current year, being such an amount as the reduction in the premium would purchase as a single payment.

5.—Separate tables for assurances without participation in profits, both Civil and Military, have been adopted for the whole of Life at reduced rates, for such persons as may prefer a lower rate of premium to participation in the general profits.

6.—The Directors have recently determined on permitting the issue of Policies in India for the whole term of Life on the non-participating scale, on the principle of receiving the premiums monthly, these Policies however, are to be granted on certain conditions, viz., that on the first issue of the Policy six months premium shall be paid in advance, and thenceforth monthly, and that in the event of persons assured returning to Europe, the monthly payments will cease, and the premium be payable at the English rates in advance yearly. And although the Board will allow 28 days grace on Policies paying monthly premiums, yet it is to be clearly understood that if those days of grace be exceeded, the Policy will be absolutely forfeited, and cannot be renewed under any circumstances whatever. It is also determined that in no case will an assurance be granted beyond the age of 60.

7.—In all cases of reduction to the English rates, the Policies are to be subject to all the regulations and conditions affecting English Policies.

8.—When application is made for assuring a life subject to more than ordinary hazard, an augmented premium will be charged proportionate to the increased risk, the rate of which will be regulated by the strictest attention to justice between the Society and the Assured, according to circumstances.

9.—On the return of persons (whose lives have been insured at Indian rates) to Europe, either for a temporary or permanent residence, and without reference to the state of health, they will be entitled to have their future premium reduced to the English rates, corresponding with the age at which the Assurance was first effected, after they shall have given at the Head Office in London notice in writing of their arrival, and such reduction shall commence with the payment of the first Premium, which shall become due next after the receipt of such written notice. Their Policies must be forwarded to the Office, to receive an endorsement, prohibiting their departure from Europe without the previous written consent of the Directors, and all such Assurances will be void if the parties whose lives have been assured shall go beyond the limits of Europe unless the said permission shall have been first obtained; and such premium paid, as in the opinion of the Directors will correspond with the extra risk incurred.

When parties assured at the Indian rates return to England, they are required to give notice in writing of their arrival, at the office in London, and in no case will their Premiums be reduced to the English rates until they next fall due after the receipt of such written notice.

In the case of participating Policies, the profits are allowed on the English rate of Premium, whereas Indian assurers can continue their Policies in England on most favorable terms.

Parties assured in Rupees in India, who may determine on paying their future Premiums in England, will be required to pay them at the fixed rate of exchange of 2s. per Rupee; and in the event of such Assurance becoming a claim payable in England, the sum assured will be paid at the same fixed rate of exchange of 2s. per Rupee.

10.—The parent Institution being in London, with a similar establishment in Calcutta for granting Policies, Premiums, as well as claims, are payable in either country at the option of the Policy holder. The appointment of Sub-committees at Madras and Bombay with power to grant Policies, affords similar facilities to persons residing at either of the sister Presidencies.

11. All Policies becoming claims on the Society, will be discharged within three months after satisfactory proof of the death and cause of death of the assured shall have been furnished to the Directors either in London or Calcutta.

12.—The Directors of the Indian Branch of the Society are empowered to treat for the purchase of Policies, for the whole term of life on which premium shall have been paid for a period of not less than five years, or to advance, if required, on such Policies, by way of Loan, two-thirds of the estimated value.

13.—Medical Referees are remunerated by the Society, by a fee of Sixteen Rupees on proposals for assurance not under Co.'s Rs. 2,500:—but for any less sum the fee to be settled by the Applicant.

14.—Tables, Blank Forms, and other particulars requisite to enable persons to effect assurances, may be had on application to the Agents.

The rates of Premium on Term Policies, and Assurances for the whole of life without participation, are now reduced, by order of the London Board, Twenty per cent., and will be found below those of any other office in India.

For Assurance for the whole Term of Life with participation in the profits of the Society, the rates remain unaltered, but the reduction after the expiration of six years has hitherto amounted upon an average Fifty per cent. upon the original charge, and the success of the Universal leads the Directors to hope that the prospective results will be still more satisfactory.
